Acqua Drill Resources utilises procedures and practices which provide a safe working environment for its employees. In the event an employee is unsure as to whether they can complete the task safely, for whatever reason whatsoever, they must advise their supervisor immediately.

The driller's are in charge of worksites at all times; failure to comply with his/her designated work task will result in removal from that rig. Any grievances should be reported to management, utilising the forms available, and a solution to resolve the problem will be put into place.

However, should the employee fail to comply with the Driller's request to undertake reasonable tasks, then disciplinary procedural flows will be initiated.

Excessive consumption of alcohol while on assignment will not be tolerated and the Company has a zero tolerance policy during working hours.

Rig and Site induction forms must be completed on arrival at each worksite.

SWMS & JHA's covering the work activities at the rig are also held at each rig and must be reviewed and signed off by each crew member prior to commencement of work on site.

Safety Data Sheets (SDS) are kept in the driller's file on the drill rig. The employee is to read these sheets and familiarise themselves at what to do should they come in contact with any of the chemicals listed on the register.

Misuse of satellite phones in the vehicles will not be tolerated. These phones are only to be used for business and emergency purposes. The employee will be shown how to use the phone by the driller.

When traveling to and from site the employee is representing the company and their fellow workers. The employee is required to dress neatly and appropriately. Traveling in dirty work gear is unacceptable.

Good house keeping and hygiene is expected.

All employees are part of a team and should work together in a productive and safe manner.
